Synopsis

www.robyncarr.com Starting over is never easy, but in Thunder Point, where newcomers are welcome and friends become family, it's possible to find yourself again. #1 New York Times bestselling author Robyn Carr takes us on a moving and rewarding journey as a young woman finds new hope. After losing her child, Ginger Dysart was lost in grief. But since moving to Thunder Point, a small town on the Oregon coast, Ginger is finally moving forward. Her job at the flower shop is peaceful and fulfilling, and she's excited to be assisting with the Lacoumette wedding. In spite of her lasting heartache, Ginger is swept up in the pleasure of the occasion. But the beauty of the Lacoumette farm and the joy of the gregarious family are ruined by an unfortunate encounter with the bride's brother, Matt. Struggling with painful memories of his own, Matt makes a drunken spectacle of himself when he tries to make a pass at Ginger, forcing her to flee the scene in embarrassment. But when Matt shows up at the flower shop determined to make amends, what started out as a humiliating first meeting blossoms into something much deeper than either of them expected. Everyone around them worries that Ginger will end up with a broken heart yet again. But if Ginger has the courage to embrace the future, and if Matt can finally learn to let go of the past, there may still be hope for a happy ending. SERIES READING ORDER APPEARS AT THE END OF THIS REVIEW! Robyn Carr is in top form in her eighth entry in the Thunder Point series. A NEW HOPE brings Ginger Dysart, the "niece"™ of real estate agent Ray Anne, to the Lacoumette farm for the wild and wonderful Basque heritage celebration that is the marriage of Dr. Scott Grant and Peyton Lacoumette. At the wedding, a very drunk, unruly man embarrasses himself by propositioning and groping Ginger. Although Ginger takes it in stride, the man feels remorseful for his out-of-character behavior, and he decides to drive to Thunder Point to find Ginger, with the thought of apologizing in person. When Ginger meets Matt, he looks and acts quite differently from the drunken clod who humiliated himself at the wedding. Matt does more than apologize—he asks Ginger to dinner, and later reflects on his surprise, not knowing why he made such an impulsive invitation. Fans of Robyn Carr's™ writing know, however! Carr gives her characters time to figure themselves out and come to their own conclusions, especially when they are working through a broken heart, as Matt is doing. Matt spontaneously explains to Ginger at their first meeting that he's™ nursing a broken heart, having just been through a bitter divorce. He goes on to explain that he's™ been married himself in the same orchard in which Peyton and Scott were married, and he simply couldn't™ handle the memories or the malaise he felt. Thus begins the friendship, and eventual romance, of Ginger and Matt. What makes A NEW HOPE so marvelous are the compelling characterizations Carr develops for Matt and Ginger. Ginger is a heartbroken shell of a woman, only just now starting to develop the will to live again, after suffering a devastating personal loss.

First off let me say that this book, along with all the others in this series, always makes me so, so happy, but also sad at the same time. Happy because I know I'll be able to go back and visit this quaint little magical town and all the wonderful people who live there. And sad because I know I'll have to wait a few months to re-visit them all again. Robyn Carr's books are the kind of books you never want to just zip through, they're the kind of books you'll want to savor every moment of. All of her books are full of heartfelt, sexy and wonderfully real people. Not one of Robyn Carr's characters are perfect--- far from it, in fact. The characters are lifelike and vibrantly developed. They all suffer from realistic issues, or just have a couple of personal problems to overcome. And between time and the magic of Ms. Carr's magical pen, they do. I can guarantee you that almost all of the people you'll meet in this Thunder Point series, will stick with you long, long after the story ends. I loved the story of Matt and Ginger. Two lost and broken souls finding their refuge from their past loss and pain in each others arms. I love the fact that they had become very close, trusted friends, before their relationship deepened into a more romantic one. Those long heart-felt phone calls they shared every night made my heart melt, but not as much as the heart to heart talk Ginger had with Al. That one made me bawl my eyes out. I guess I really shouldn't have been surprised, though; Al has been sweet, kind, thoughtful, and very giving throughout this whole series. I loved that we got to see more of Peyton & Scott, Grace & Troy, Winnie and Gracie's former Coach, as well as the outrageous, and very boisterious Lacoumette family.
